A colored couple brought their five year old boy to Raynolds & Daniel's last Sunday to have a grain of popcorn extracted from his ear. It seems the little fellow placed it there himself, and it was in so deep as to be barely visible, and very difficult to extract. Dr. Burleson removed it and the parents departed happy.

We have been shown a very beautiful work of art executed by Miss Katie Booker. It is a picture of the San Marcos Falls, supplemented by admirable lifelike representations of its aquatic vegetation, the main figure being a water lily. The whole reflects much credit on the artistic skill of the fair and accomplished lady. It was painted for Mr. Chas. Hutchings who designs sending it to his mother in Old England. Saviour that on a certain occasion messengers were sent out into the highways and by-ways, with very pressing invitations to a supper. Southern hospitality has been known almost to duplicate the narrative in the parable, of a verity. For instance though not sent for, we were actually called to supper Sunday evening while riding by the Prescott house, by the excellent and amiable mistress of the same. Of course we could not decline such a call from such an agreeable a source, and were favored, with a goodly company, to partake of an excellent supper, comprising turkey and all the accompaniments. The entire spontani-ety of the call struck us very pleasantly.

The peculiar shape of one of our local columns, seems to demand a word of explanation. Having admitted the criticism of Rev. Mr. Martin's preaching in our last, the same space was asked for a reply and cheerfully accorded. Rev. Mr. Hendon, paster of the Baptist church, called on us with regard to the matter, stating that Mr. Martin would not reply, but that as he (Mr. Martin), had delivered his sermons here by request of the paster and church, and as they fully agreed with Mr. Martin as to the matters called in question, he, (Mr. Hendon), felt that himself and church ought to respond, if any response should be deemed necessary. In order to determine this point, he demanded the name of the author of the article in our last signed "Alpha," which we gave him, and he then wrote the "reply" which appears in another column. We have had advertisers to ask for the use of blank space in that way, but never be-forched and all to neethers. The sading matter than the course of thuman events," a place which but two years ago was merely a country store, has attained the size and importance of this, I do think there should be some one to proclaim the transition, and to record the important events occurring therein, to mention its improvements both present and prospective, to write of its beauteous surroundings, its great natural advantages and the thousand and one things which make it a place much to be sought after. And since no one has seen fit to pay this "tribute to real worth," I will attempt the difficult feat. I say difficult, for Nature has been so lavish with her gifts, that it is impossible for one pair of eyes to discover them all, or for one of blank space in that way, but never before had a call to use thus a "reading matter" column. We however, have no objection to it; we merely wished to explain the odd appearance of our local page.

it in one short letter, but will, as best I can,

Obituary. Mas. Dr EMMA ATWELL, of Hutchins, Texas, whose illness was mentioned in our last, fied about that date. She was in the prime of life, but anticipated death at no distant period from consumption, that disease being hereditary in her family. She met her death, however, from a form of congestion of the brain. She had overtaxed her energies in attending a sick son, thereby saving his life, but losing her own.

Having been favored to know the deceased and in May last to meet her at her own many estimable traits of character. Very her untimely death, and most deeply comniserate the condition of her husband and four young children in this sudden eclipse think of her as she appeared among the roses blooming in their groundsto bid us Springs Academy, under the control of the anticipations of another visit to San Marcos—anticipations, alas, never to be realized.

We append the following verses which ecently met our eye, and which we deem appropriate to her life-mission and her ast appearance at her home :

THE HOME MAKER.

Where the mountains slope to the westward, And their purple chalices hold The new made wine of sunset, Crimson, and amber and gold—

In this old, wide-opened doorway,
With elm boughs overhead—
The house all garnished behind her,
And bountiful table spread the has stood to welcome our coming

Watching our upward climb, In the sweet June weather that brought us Oh, many and many a time! To-day in the gentle splendor Of the early autumn noon— Perfect in sunshine and fragrance, As was the balmy June—

Again is is her doorway opened, And the house is garnished and sweet; But she silently waits our coming, And we enter with silent feet.

Her hands are folded together. And the word on her lips is "rest." And yet it looks like a welcome, · For her work is compassed and done; All things are seeming and ready, And her summer is just begun. It is we who may not pass over; Only with song and prayer.

A little way into glory, We may reach as we leave her there. But we cannot think her idle: She must be a home maker still; God giveth that work to the augels Who are fittest the task to fulfill.

And somewhere yet in the hill-tops Of the country that hath no pain, She will watch in her beautiful doorway, To bid us welcome again. ADELINE D. S. WHITNEY.

And now, Mr. Editor, first of all let me mention the best, that divinum Dei donum Health; go where you may, I do not think you will find a spot so generally exempt from diseases, as this little Dripping Springs valley. Those who have lived nearly half a century here, will bear me out in that assertion. That the climate is delightful, you Mr. Editor can testify, after coming (as you have), from the prairie to the hill country.

As to the soil and its productiveness, I leave the many thrifty farmers to testify. during her recent sojourn at this place, I dare say, that while you may not find many wealthy persons here, you will find home, we had learned to prize highly her fewer abject, poor people than in any community of its size in Texas; which, in itself, seldom have we ever met one so warmly is a great recomendation to those seeking sympathetic and large-hearted. We lament homes. If they are sociably inclined, be they plain or polished they can find congenial companions; be they selfish, they will be left severely to themselves; be they of the light of a home which seemed to us a religious they can find kindred spirits of all model of domestic bliss. We shall always denominations, and be they studious, they can find the model of schools in Dripping adieu, while expressing her pleasant "prince of teachers," Prof. Horsley, most ably assisted by Miss Callahan and Mrs. Graves, and that they are well qualified. (eminently so), to fill their respective positions, we need no better proof than the fact, that, they were selected by Prof. H. (he will tolerate none but the best), and heartily approved by our trustees, patrons and pupils. The future of our school is bright indeed. Though laboring under many disadvantages it is, under the present management, slowly but surely making its way to the head of the list of high schools. It has in daily attendance over 130 pupils with more to come in, and yet others who would come, if, their parents could see beyond this financial crisis. To those who are able and are easting about for a place at which to have their children educated, let me advise them to bring or send them here. I do this not to build up the school, for that will build itself; true merit, you know, will ultimately meet with its just reward; but I do it because, I believe with all my heart that there is no better training school in our State. Our teachers are classically educated, refined, moral and religious, and while they teach no particular religious doc trine in the school, by precept and example they daily tell the pupils that to obey the laws of the "Most High God," and to walk in his foot-steps is the highest accomplishment man or woman can acquire and the best guaranty of success in life, and as a general thing the citizens are in accord with them. We have three organized churches here Baptist, Methodist and Christian (I mention them in the order of their numerical strength), and a good many members of other denominations, not leaving out an Inger-> so I must leave them for my next, if perchance, the next ever be written. We are poorer in news-items than anything else. I may mention, however, that two of your clerical brethren have been for several days, teaching the way of life as they understand it. Brother Driskill, it seems after repeated trials, failed to make this people believe that "God put it in thar" as he says he did, so he brought, what everybody concedes to be most weighty authority in the person of Brother Pritchett. and he even, seems to have accomplished but little in that direction. But one thing he did accomplish, and that was to gain many friends and admirers by his humble, gentlemany deportment, eloquent preaching and sweet singing. I think all believe him a good man, though differing with most of us on some bible questions. But, Mr. Editor, I am making my letter too long for a newspaper article. I truse you will pardon me, when you remember that of things nearest our hearts we are apt to speak much-years, at the low price of $25 to close them ly, sometimes even ad nauseum.

PRIMUS.

Mr. Epiros.-Much has been written regarding proper employment for women. Silk culture, poultry raising and many other things have been well ventilated; the result has no doubt been very successful. But there are many other ladies who cannot raise silk worms or follow employment of that kind. To that class I wish to introduce what to me was an entirely new field. Some three months since my uncle from Albany N. Y, was visiting at our house, and we were speaking of plated wire in the manufacture of which he is engaged, and to gratify my curiosity he made a plating machine and replated our knives spoons and castor. The machine cost only $4, and did the work perfectly. Some of our neighbors saw what we had plated and asked me to do some plating for them, I have since worked 22 days and cleared $49 45. At almost every house we got from $2 to $3 worth of plating to do and such work is most all profit. This work is as nice for ladies as gents and any for which I solicit orders, guaranteeing can do it. I am making a Cabinet of lowest prices and best terms. Geological specimens, and to any of your readers who will send me a piece of old stones, shells, or old coins I will send complete directions for making a plating machine that will plate gold, silver and ated themselves together for the practice of nickle. My object is to get as varied a collection as possible. Please address Miss Francis Cassey, Oberlin, O.
